Singing Dialogues PAUL TURNER

An effective celebration of the Mass practically demands singing. Not every culture sings the same way, and not every individual can sing well. Still, the General Instruction of the Roman Missal attaches "great importance" to singing whenever we gather to celebrate the Eucharist.

When most people think about singing at church, they imagine their favorite hymns and songs. However, the GIRM has a preference for singing something else: the dialogues.

"Preference should be given to those {parts} that are of greater importance and especially to those to be sung by the priest or the deacon or the lector, with the people responding, or by the priest and people together" (40).

This has been part of the instructions for celebrating the Eucharist ever since 1969, with one small exception. The third edition of the Roman Missal, first published in 2002, added the words "or the deacon or the lector." The overall intent of this sentence is to encourage the singing of dialogues throughout the Mass, and this addition suggests that even the readings could conclude with a sung dialogue: "The Word of the Lord." "Thanks be to God."

When the third edition of the missal was published both in Latin and in English, additional musical settings for chanting dialogues appeared in the books, including those in the penitential act and the ones that follow the washing of the priest's hands and the Lamb of God. There has been no change to the legislation concerning the chanting of the dialogues, but the editorial presentation of the missal is encouraging it. For this reason, you may experience not just singing hymns at the Mass but singing more dialogues of the Mass.

July 24th, 2011 - 17th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Treasures of the Kingdom

1 Kings 3:5,7-12

Psalms 119:57,72,76-77,127-130

Romans 8:28-30

Matthew 13:44-52

What is your new life in Christ worth to you?

Do you love His words more than gold and silver? Would you, like the characters in the Gospel today, sell all that you have in order to possess the kingdom He promises to us? If God were to grant any wish, would you follow Solomon's example in today's First Reading—asking not for a long life or riches, but for wisdom to know God's ways and to desire His will?

The background for today's Gospel, as it has been for the past several weeks, is the rejection of Jesus' preaching by Israel. The kingdom of heaven has come into their midst, yet many cannot see that Jesus is the fulfillment of God's promises, a gift of divine compassion given that they—and we, too—might live.

We too must ever discover the kingdom anew, to find it as a treasure - a pearl of great price. By comparison with the kingdom, we must count all else as rubbish (see Philippians 3:8). And we must be willing to give up all that we have—all our priorities and plans—in order to gain it.

Jesus' Gospel discloses what Paul, in today's Epistle, calls the purpose of God's plan (see Ephesians 1:4). That purpose is that Jesus be the firstborn of many brothers.

His words give understanding to the simple, the childlike. As Solomon does today, we must humble ourselves before God, giving ourselves to His service. Let our prayer be for an understanding heart, one that desires only to do His will.

We are called to love God, to delight in His law, and to forsake every false way. And we are to conform ourselves daily ever more closely to the image of His Son.

If we do this, we can approach His altar as a pleasing sacrifice, confident that all things work for the good—that we whom He has justified, will also one day be glorified.

Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) is a process for people who are interested in learning about the Catholic faith with the hope of becoming Catholic. This process of RCIA traces its roots back to the beginnings of Christianity itself.

Today the RCIA includes catechumens, i.e., those who have never been baptized and wish to become Catholic; and candidates, those who were baptized in another Christian faith, or a baptized Catholic who has not yet received the sacraments of Confirmation and Eucharist. The RCIA process guides the catechumens and candidates to inquire and grow in their personal faith and in their commitment to the Catholic church. At the Easter Vigil they are baptized and received into the Catholic faith and the community of St. Florian.

If you or someone you know would like to receive more information about this wonderful journey of faith, please see Fr. Jim in church or call him at the rectory at 773/646-4877. You'll be glad you did!

Feast of the Assumption of Mary
