New Words.Deeper Meaning.Same Mass.The Corporate Nature of Worship

Fr. Douglas Martis, The Liturgical Institute, University of Saint Mary of the Lake

Some time ago I was praying in a chapel, as I looked up I saw the hymnals neatly arranged in the book holders of each pew. On the cover of each book, the word "Gather" in gold lettering popped out against the dark background. "That's our problem!" I said almost out loud.

For nearly a generation, we have been told and have been telling others that we have to "gather" in Church. Our songs reinforce the notion: "We gather together to sing the Lord's praises..." The hymnals, too, speak: "Gather," they tell us. And yet, if we stay at that level—at the level of gathering only—we have missed an essential aspect of the liturgy.

I think of a model airplane that I can buy at the local hardware store. All of the pieces are there in the box, gathered in the same place. But they do not get to be an airplane until the pieces are assembled!

The same is true of the Church at prayer. The worshiping assembly is formed into one body on a variety of levels: in speech, in song, in gesture, but also in mind and heart. And while it is true that when they gather to pray, each brings his or her own prayers, none should come with any other motive than the praise of God.

The Christian community joined in public prayer is decidedly not a group of anonymous individuals who happen to be gathered in the same place and time. They are called brothers and sisters in the Lord—related by nothing less than blood and water—the Blood of Christ and the water of baptism. They are perpetually trying to connect every aspect of their lives with the Mystery of Christ.

Assembling into one body is only possible for those willing to do so; they must come to the liturgy with openness and charity, ready to pray together, ready to share and celebrate what really matters, ready to care for one another. In some ways, the liturgical assembly never really exhausts its role because concern for others extends beyond the walls of the building.

Our participation in the liturgy happens because we are members of the Mystical Body of Christ. Saint Paul explains this magnificent idea for us in the First Letter to the Corinthians. Each one of us, in his or her own and unique way has something to contribute. Since the Eucharistic Liturgy is the prayer of Christ to his Father, we can only participate in it fully if we are members of Christ. By the Sacrament of Baptism, we become members of his body and are "equipped" with the ability to join his prayer to the Father.

Sinking Fear

1 Kings 19:9, 11-13
Psalm 85:9-14

Romans 9:1-5
Matthew 14:22-33

How do we find God in the storms and struggles of our lives, in the trials we encounter in trying to do His will?

God commands Elijah in today's First Reading to stand on the mountain and await His passing by. And in the Gospel, Jesus makes the disciples set out across the waters to meet Him.

In each case, the Lord makes himself present amid frightening tumult - heavy winds and high waves, fire and earthquakes.

Elijah hides his face. Perhaps he remembers Moses, who met God on the same mountain, also amid fire, thunder, and smoke (see Deuteronomy 4:10-15; Exodus 19:17-19). God told Moses no one could see His face and live, and He sheltered Moses in the hollow of a rock, as He shelters Elijah in a cave (see Exodus 33:18-23).

The disciples, likewise, are too terrified to look on the face of God. Today's Gospel is a revelation of Jesus' divine identity. Only God treads across the crest of the sea (see Job 9:8) and rules the raging waters (see Psalm 89:9-10). And the words of assurance that Jesus speaks - "It is I" - are those God used to identify himself to Moses (see Exodus 3:14; Isaiah 43:10).

Even Peter is too overcome by fear to imitate his Lord. His fears, Jesus tells him, are a sign of his lack of faith. And so it often is with us. Our fears make us doubt, make it hard to see His glory dwelling in our midst.

Yet, we should know, as we sing in today's Psalm, that His salvation is near to those who hope in Him. By faith we should know, as Paul asserts in today's Epistle, that we are heirs to the promises made to His children, Israel.

We must trust that He whispers to us in the trials of our lives - that He who has called us to walk along the way of His steps, will save us whenever we begin to sink.

Work Continues around the Parish & School:

As mentioned in recent bulletins, we have completed our work with tuckpointing the church building. Thank you to those who have contributed towards the expense of this project and a special thanks to our Knights of Columbus Council for their very generous donation.

We are still looking for a contractor to patch and repair ceilings and walls in the school (above the Church). So far, one company looked at the job and then declined to submit a bid, another company made an appointment but never showed up, a third company was well-recommended and submitted a bid which is still under consideration. The Archdiocese requires three bids for comparison.

Although we've run out of time to complete the interior repairs before school resumes, we are still in the process of accepting bids. If there are any parishioners or school families who could recommend a contractor skilled in plastering and/or drywall repair, please call the rectory at 773/646-4877 and ask for Fr. Jim or Kathy.

Other work this summer included refinishing our gym floor funded by proceeds from our Athletic program. It looks brand new! (See info on p. 5 about needing helping hands before school begins to dust off the bleachers, etc. from all of the sanding.) Thanks also to the parents who came out and painted and cleaned the cafeteria. Our custodians have thoroughly cleaned classrooms, waxed floors and spruced up the school to welcome our students.

Still to be completed before heating season begins — repairing the gym/preschool boiler. Two sections have cracked and need to be replaced. The cost will be approx. $8500 and work will begin soon.

Please be sure to use your Maintenance envelopes and contribute as generously as you are able to help fund these projects.
